Mitigate Wildfire Losses Days In Advance

With escalating wildfire activity across the U.S., risk control experts, loss control teams, customer service professionals, and claims managers are under increasing pressure to stay ahead of the threat with proactive communications and impact assessments. The market has traditionally leaned on tools that offer basic wildfire point/perimeter information, but these products often lack critical details about a wildfire's direction, speed, and potential impact. With our Active Wildfire Impact Monitoring solution, you will have the confidence you need to accurately identify and mitigate potential in-force risks.
